ATTENTION DIRECT AND INDIRECT HOLDERS OF, AND PROSPECTIVE HOLDERS OF STOCK ISSUED BY FIELDWOOD ENERGY INC. OR ITS AFFILIATED COMPANIES:

Upon the motion (the "Motion") of Fieldwood Energy LLC and its affiliated companies (the "Debtors"), on August 4, 2020, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Texas (the "Bankruptcy Court"), having jurisdiction over the chapter 11 cases of the Debtors, captioned as In re Fieldwood Energy LLC, et al., Case No. 20-33948 (the "Chapter 11 Cases"), entered an interim order establishing procedures (the "Procedures") with respect to direct and indirect transfers of common stock of Fieldwood Energy Inc. ("Common Stock"), including options to acquire beneficial ownership of Common Stock, and certain claims of worthless stock deductions and scheduling a hearing on a final order with respect to such Procedures.

In certain circumstances, the Procedures restrict (i) transactions involving, and require notices of the holdings of and proposed transactions by, any person, group of persons, or entity that is or, as a result of such a transaction, would become a Substantial Stockholder of Common Stock and (ii) claims by any Majority Stockholder of a worthless stock deduction under section 165(g) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, with respect to its beneficial ownership of Common Stock. For purposes of the Procedures, a "Substantial Stockholder" is any person or entity (including certain persons making a coordinated acquisition) that beneficially owns, directly or indirectly (and/or owns options to acquire) at least 1,450,000 shares of Common Stock (representing approximately 4.75% of all issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock), and a "Majority Stockholder" is any person that beneficially owns at least 14,500,000 shares of Common Stock (representing approximately 47.5% of all issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock) or any person that would be a "50-percent shareholder" (within the meaning of section 382(g)(4)(D) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended) of Common Stock (as defined in the Procedures) if such person claimed a worthless stock deduction with respect to such securities. Any prohibited acquisition or other transfer of, or claim of a worthless stock deduction with respect to, Common Stock (including options to acquire beneficial ownership of Common Stock) will be null and void ab initio and may lead to contempt, compensatory damages, punitive damages, or sanctions being imposed by the Bankruptcy Court.

The Procedures, as approved on an interim basis and as requested on a final basis, are available on the website of Prime Clerk LLC, the Debtors' Court-approved claims agent, located at <https://cases.primeclerk.com/fieldwoodenergy>, and on the docket of the Chapter 11 Cases, Docket No. 20-33948 (ML), which can be accessed via PACER at <https://www.pacer.gov>.

A direct or indirect holder of, or prospective holder of, Common Stock that may be or become a Substantial Stockholder, a Majority Stockholder should consult the Procedures.

At Bon Appétit, Exodus From a Video Series

By MARC TRACY

Two months after Bon Appétit's top editor resigned under pressure amid complaints of racial insensitivity, three journalists of color said they would no longer participate in the magazine's popular video series.

Two of the journalists accused Condé Nast, the magazine's parent company, of failing to offer them pay comparable to that of their white colleagues.

The three journalists, Sohla El-Waylly, Priya Krishna and Rick Martinez, announced their decisions Thursday in statements on their Instagram accounts.

"After five weeks of contract negotiations," Mr. Martinez wrote, "it is clear that I will not get a fair pay rate nor will I get a comparable number of appearances with my colleagues in the test kitchen. Nor would anyone share with me the specifics of the diversity and inclusivity initiatives in video that they claim to be working on."

The three indicated that they have not left the magazine, whose masthead lists Ms. El-Waylly as an assistant food editor, Ms. Krishna as a contributing writer and Mr. Martinez as a contributing food editor. ("Contributing" workers at Condé Nast are contractors, rather than staff employees; Ms. Krishna has contributed frequently to the Food section of The New York Times.)

Two days later, Matt Duckor, Condé Nast's head of programming, who oversaw video for Bon Appétit and other titles, also resigned, after an online petition called for his removal, accusing him of overseeing a "discriminatory system that paid white editors at Bon Appétit for their video work, while their nonwhite editors received nothing."

In meetings with employees in June, Condé Nast's chief executive, Roger Lynch, and its artistic director, Anna Wintour, pledged that the company would emphasize diversity efforts in the future.

Mr. Lynch said the choice of a new Bon Appétit top editor would show the company's commitment to being more inclusive.

The search for a top editor is ongoing. On Thursday the company announced that Sonia Chopra, previously of the food site Eater, would help lead Bon Appétit as its executive editor, a position she is scheduled to start on Aug. 24.

"Sonia's energy and expertise connecting content across platforms is unmatched and will drive the continued success of Bon Appétit and our food brands," Ms. Wintour said in a statement.

Ms. Krishna said in her statement on Thursday that the recent assurances from the company concerning fair pay had turned out to be "all lip service."

"The contract I received was nowhere near equitable," she added, "and actually would potentially allow for me to make even less than I do currently."

A spokesman for Condé Nast said in a statement: "We pay all our employees fairly, and in accordance with their role and experience. Our pay practices are in line with industry standards. To suggest that we are paying individuals differently based on race, gender or any other reason simply isn't true."

Bon Appétit has been a significant part of the company's online video operation. Its test-kitchen videos have minted internet stars and attracted more than six million subscribers. The magazine has not posted a new test-kitchen video since June 5.

Notable News Media Critic Is Starting His Own Outlet

By MARC TRACY

Over the last 15 years, Ken Doctor has made his living as a critic of the news industry. A onetime media executive who started out as a publisher and editor of an alt weekly, Mr. Doctor regularly warns against hedge-fund ownership of news outlets in a column he writes for Harvard University's Nieman Journalism Lab. Media companies hire him as a consultant, and he is often quoted in articles on the dismal state of local news coverage in America.

Now, at age 70, Mr. Doctor is leaving his life as an armchair expert and starting a local news company, Lookout Local, he said on Thursday. Its flagship site, Lookout Santa Cruz, will cover the California county where he lives, an area he likens to a "news desert" because it does not have enough journalists covering it.

"I came to the epiphany of putting both sides of my brain together," Mr. Doctor said. "I'm an analyst. I understand the business. At the same time, I realized I lived in a worsening and worsening news desert."

The new role will put Mr. Doctor in direct competition with Alden Global Capital, a New York hedge fund that he has often criticized in his column. Alden controls MediaNews Group, the parent company of The Santa Cruz Sentinel, which will be the main rival of Lookout Santa Cruz.

Mr. Doctor's start-up is a for-profit, public-benefit company. It has funding from the Knight Foundation, the Google News Initiative Innovation Challenge, the Lenfest Institute for Journalism and others. He said he plans to start Lookout Santa Cruz in the fall with a staff of eight to 10 journalists. The site has a deal with The Los Angeles Times to use its content management system, Graphene, and to run some of its content.

Some people advised Mr. Doctor to start smaller, with two or three journalists, but he decided to heed the advice he had laid out in a January column arguing that in-depth coverage will attract subscribers and ultimately pay for itself. If Lookout Santa Cruz is a success, he plans to start sibling sites.

"I set upon figuring out, first, as an intellectual exercise, and then in reality, what it would take to create a new news institution," Mr. Doctor said.

Mr. Doctor said he drew inspiration from the 1975 Bend in the River conference led by the author Ken Kesey (and his Merry Pranksters), a gathering of activists in Bend, Ore., who sought to shape what life would be like in the 21st century. ("Baby Boomers are grandiose," Mr. Doctor said.)

After the conference, Mr. Doctor helped found The Willamette Valley Observer in Eugene, Ore., an alternative paper that lasted from 1975 to 1982. He later worked at The Boulder Daily Camera and The St. Paul Pioneer Press, both published by Knight Ridder, before working as an executive at the chain until 2005, a year before it was bought by the McClatchy Company.

Mark Zusman, the publisher of Willamette Week, a Portland, Ore., alt-weekly who knew Mr. Doctor in the '70s, said the Lookout Local venture was in keeping with the person he knew back then.

"He struck me then, despite however long his hair was, as having the heart of a genuine journalist," Mr. Zusman said, "which is why I'm not surprised to see him jumping back in."

Uber's Food Delivery Brightened a Grim Quarter

By KATE CONGER

OAKLAND, CALIF. — Uber is synonymous around the world with ride hailing. But as the coronavirus pandemic shows few signs of loosening its grip, the company may become more closely associated with another business: delivery.

Uber said on Thursday that its ride-hailing business had cratered in the second quarter as people traveled less in the pandemic. The company's revenue fell 29 percent to $2.2 billion from a year ago — the steepest decline since its initial public offering last May — as its net loss totaled $1.8 billion.

But its Uber Eats food delivery service surged, with revenue more than doubling from a year ago to exceed that of ride hailing for the first time. Revenue for Uber Eats soared to $1.2 billion, while rides came in at $790 million.

Dara Khosrowshahi, Uber's chief executive, said in a call with investors on Thursday that the varied pandemic responses around the world had created "a tale of 10,000 cities" for the company, with business recovering in some regions and not in others.

In spite of the challenges, he said delivery was "a very high-potential opportunity" for Uber to expand even further by offering deliveries of home goods, prescription medications and pet supplies.

Uber has doubled down on food delivery in recent months. In May, Mr. Khosrowshahi sought to acquire Grubhub, a delivery service, but the companies struggled to agree on terms and to deal with potential antitrust scrutiny. Last month, Uber said it would instead acquire the delivery service Postmates in an all-stock deal valued at $2.65 billion.

Buying Postmates is expected to give Uber roughly 35 percent of the U.S. food delivery market, analysts said. That would allow Uber to challenge the delivery leader, DoorDash, which is estimated to have a 45 percent market share.

The mixed results sent Uber's share price down more than 4 percent in after-hours trading.

"Right now, they are swimming in the red ink," said Dan Ives, managing director of equity research

MARK ABRAMSON FOR THE NEW YORK TIMES

The company's overall revenue fell 29 percent to $2.2 billion from a year ago, but Uber Eats's revenue surged, besting the ride hailing business.

at Wedbush Securities. "Investors are still giving them the benefit of the doubt because of Uber Eats."

Uber has consistently lost money, and Mr. Khosrowshahi remains under pressure to make it profitable. The company's net loss in the second quarter narrowed from $5.2 billion a year ago, when it was dealing with stock-based compensation costs from its initial public offering. Uber said it still intended to become profitable sometime next year.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC AND ALL INTERESTED MORTGAGE LENDERS
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY AFFAIRS
MORTGAGE CREDIT CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

The Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs (the "Department") intends to implement a Mortgage Credit Certificate Program (the "Program") to assist eligible very low, low, and moderate income first-time homebuyers with the purchase of a residence located within the State of Texas.

Under the Program, a first-time homebuyer who satisfies the eligibility requirements described herein may receive a federal income tax credit in an amount equal to the product of the mortgage credit rate established under the Program and the interest paid or accrued by the homeowner during the taxable year on the remaining principal of the certified indebtedness amount incurred by the homeowner to acquire the principal residence of the homeowner; provided that, if the certificate credit rate established under the Program exceeds 20%, the amount of such credit allowed in any taxable year may not exceed $2,000. In order to qualify to receive a mortgage credit certificate, the homebuyer must qualify for a conventional, FHA, VA, USDA or other home mortgage loan from a lending institution and must meet the other requirements of the Program.

The mortgage credit certificates will be issued to qualified mortgagors on a first-come, first-served basis by the Department, which will review applications from lending institutions and prospective mortgagors to determine compliance with the requirements of the Program and determine that mortgage credit certificates remain available under the Program. No mortgage credit certificates will be issued prior to ninety (90) days from the date of publication of this notice or after the date that all of the credit certificate amount has been allocated to homebuyers, and in no event will mortgage credit certificates be issued later than the date permitted by federal tax law.

In order to satisfy the eligibility requirements for a mortgage credit certificate under the Program: (a) the prospective residence must be a single-family residence located within the State of Texas that can be reasonably expected to become the principal residence of the mortgagor within a reasonable period of time after the financing is provided; (b) the prospective homebuyer's current income must not exceed, (1) for families of three or more persons, 115% (140% in certain targeted areas or in certain cases permitted under applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code")) of the area median income; and (2) for individuals and families of two persons, 100% (120% in certain targeted areas or in certain cases permitted under applicable provisions of the Code) of the area median income; (c) the prospective homebuyer must not have owned a home as a principal residence during the past three years (except in the case of certain targeted area residences or in certain cases permitted under applicable provisions of the Code); (d) the acquisition cost of the residence must not exceed 90% (110%, in the case of certain targeted area residences or in certain cases permitted under applicable provisions of the Code) of the average area purchase price applicable to the residence; and (e) no part of the proceeds of the qualified indebtedness may be used to acquire or replace an existing mortgage (except in certain cases permitted under applicable provisions of the Code). To obtain additional information on the Program, including the boundaries of current targeted areas, as well as the current income and purchase price limits (which are subject to revision and adjustment from time to time by the Department pursuant to changes in applicable federal law and Department policy), please contact Cathy Gutierrez at the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, 221 East 11th Street, Austin, Texas 78701-2410; telephone (512) 475-0277.

The Department intends to maintain a list of single family mortgage lenders that will participate in the Program by making loans to qualified holders of these mortgage credit certificates. Any lender interested in appearing on this list or in obtaining additional information regarding the Program should contact Cathy Gutierrez at the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, 221 East 11th Street, Austin, Texas 78701-2410; (512) 475-0277. The Department may schedule a meeting with lenders to discuss in greater detail the requirements of the Program.

This notice is published in satisfaction of the requirements of Section 25 of the Code and Treasury Regulation Sections 1.25-3T(g)(4) and 25-4T promulgated thereunder regarding the public notices prerequisite to the issuance of mortgage credit certificates and to maintaining a list of participating lenders.

million. Westlake Chemical's net sales fell 20 percent to $1.7 billion in the second quarter from $2.1 billion in the same quarter of 2019.

The company said that profits fell primarily because of the economic impact of COVID-19, which drove a significant decline in oil prices, which in turn reduced the competitiveness of natural gas feedstocks used in making ethylene, a chemical building block of plastics.

Targa Resources, a Houston-based natural gas pipeline operator, halted seven quarters of losses to make $48.9 million in the second quarter compared with a $41.2 million loss one year earlier.

The company's second-quarter revenue declined by 25 percent to $1.5 billion from $2 billion during the same quarter of 2019.

Targa took most of its pain during the first quarter, when the company wrote down the value of $2.2 billion worth of assets, cut its budget by more than $1 billion and slashed its dividend to save another $755 million.

Cheniere Energy, the Houston-based liquefied natural gas company, made $197 million during the quarter compared with a $114 million loss during the same quarter a year earlier. The profit came even as dozens of LNG cargoes were canceled during the ongoing pandemic.

Second-quarter revenue increased 5 percent to $2.4 billion from $2.3 billion during the same quarter a year earlier.

Cheniere said exports declined 25 percent to 78 shipments from 104 one year earlier.

Cheniere still earns fees on canceled cargoes, collecting $708 million worth of fees in the second quarter, according to an SEC filing.

Parsley Energy, the Austin-based shale driller, said it lost $356 million during the quarter, compared with a profit of $116 million during the same period a year earlier. Second-quarter revenue fell by more than half to $220 million from $499 million in the same period in 2019.

"From a macro standpoint, the second quarter represented an unforgiving stress test for much of our industry," CEO Matt Gallagher said in a statement. "The worst may be behind us – prices have found firmer footing as oil markets seek a cautious equilibrium. However, at Parsley Energy, we harbor no illusions of the difficulties facing our industry and we remain well-built for that endurance test."

Parsley responded to the oil bust by suspending new drilling and completion operations, and it idled 15 rigs and five hydraulic-fracturing equipment sets in May and June. The company also paused 20 percent of its oil production.

Talos Energy, a Houston-based oil and gas company, lost $140.6 million during the quarter, compared with a profit of $94.8 million during the same period a year earlier. Second-quarter revenue fell by more than two-thirds to $88.9 million from $286.8 million in the same period in 2019.

"Although the second quarter presented unprecedented challenges for our industry, we took several actions in the quarter that have made us a stronger company for the remainder of this year and beyond," CEO Timothy Duncan said.

Talos has deferred oil and gas production by 14,400 barrels equivalent per day and permanently shut down production totaling about 600 barrels equivalent per day. It plans to cut administrative costs by about $20 million, or about 25 percent, and reduce operating expenses by $40 million, or about 12 percent.
